

Mrs. Joseph Galigher entertained at bridge for her on Tuesday.

A couple of the most enjoyable events of the week took place on Tuesday evening, Mrs. W. C. Hall entertaining about fifty friends at bridge in honor of Miss Leila Trent, and Miss Olive Jennings being responsible for a clever affair in honor of Miss Pinkerton.

A new explanation for the sudden departure of Gladys of the strong arm and the Swinnerton face, who presides occasionally over your kitchen range, may be found in something a certain kitchen mechanic stated to a woman who lately employed her.

With the tears turned on full tilt, she went to state the horrible truth that she was about to seek new fields, and said: "I jest can't stand it, mam, that there son of yours—I'm crazy stuck on him, an' if he only wasn't here I'd stay, 'cause I like the place. He don't know it, mam, but every time I looks at him, I can't hardly keep from a throwin' my arms around him, an' I have to leave."

It is a shame to tell this, but in the present emergency, if the son of the house or the serving maid must be sacrificed, it is up to the son to skidoo.

"Say," queried the sporty-looking man, as he entered the intelligence office, "can you procure a clerk for me with a voice exactly like mine?" "Don't know," replied the manager; "what's the object?" "I want him to stay at the office every night and answer the telephone when my wife rings up," explained the party of the sporty part. —Chicago News.

"I hear you are at work on a new novel." "Yes," said the popular novelist. "Who is to bring it out?" "I don't know yet. The highest bonus I have been offered so far is only seventy thousand dollars, and unless the publishers show an inclination to be more liberal I may burn it. I can't afford to cheapen my work in the estimation of the public."—Ex.

I. C. GLOSZ

Diploma for finest display of Furs
1905

High grade Furs, Fur Lined Garments, Jackets, Neck-pieces, Muffs, and Children's Sets. Glosz's prices on Furs makes buying elsewhere an extravagance.

Our Fur Shop of 1905 and 1906 is completeness in every detail—presenting the latest approved modes in all the popular staples as well as the fads and fancies as prescribed by Dame Fashion.

Pelts were purchased before the great rise, and manufactured by us during the dull months of summer at a minimum expense. Many of these Furs have already advanced in the open market to double our prices.

For Fur Garments to be made to measure we will submit estimates, designs and skins from which to select; the standard which governs our work-rooms is high. It reflects itself in the product.

Remodeling, repairing, relining, redyeing and cleaning at lowest prices and best workmanship.

Upon payment of a small deposit Furs will be stored free of charge and held until wanted. Mail orders will receive prompt attention.
